Purpose of this document

This is the complete reference for referrers explaining what Buzprout charges, how clients are billed, what each price includes, why those prices exist, and how to set expectations when sending clients our way.

It covers:

- One-time build pricing (websites and systems)
- Payment options when clients cannot pay everything upfront
- Ongoing care after launch
- Add-ons and what clients pay separately
- Billing boundaries: what is included, excluded, or quoted separately
- Referrer compensation: what a referrer earns and when they are paid
- A complete worked example showing how the model applies to The Beauty Refinery JA

Published ranges are starting points. Every client gets a firm quote after a free discovery call, once scope is clear.

How Buzprout prices work

Buzprout is not a template shop. We help Caribbean businesses fix real problems: more bookings, fewer manual messages, better customer experience. We do that using websites, booking flows, and custom tools.

Our pricing model:

1. Identify the business outcome: what is the problem costing them in time, revenue, or trust?
2. Match a tier: Entry (visibility), Growth (conversion), Systems (operations), or Retainers (ongoing improvement)
3. Quote a firm price: after a free call, not before

If a client only says "I need a website," the right question is: What problem should that website solve? A brochure site and a booking-dependent salon site are not the same investment.

Nothing is free: there is always a cost

Clients often assume that because hosting or database tiers can start cheap, the whole thing should stay cheap forever. That is not how live business technology works.

Every project and every live site carries cost in one or more forms:

Cash: professional design and development, hosting, domain renewal, database usage, backups, and ongoing care.

Time: the client or their staff troubleshooting outages, updating prices manually, or chasing broken booking links.

Opportunity: stale prices on the site, a broken booking flow over a busy weekend, or customers who leave because the site does not work or look credible.

Platform rent is not care. Hosting, deployment, and database services provide infrastructure. They do not update service menus, fix bugs after software updates, or answer when the Book button stops working on a Friday night.

Referrers can help clients understand: the build fee creates the asset; the monthly platform or care fee keeps it reliable. Whether infrastructure is included or billed separately depends on the client agreement. The Beauty Refinery JA's current routine infrastructure is included in its JMD $5,000 platform fee.

Build packages: one-time project fees

Prices below are ranges. Final quotes depend on pages, integrations, content readiness, and complexity.

Entry: Visibility

For businesses that need to be found online and look credible.

Starter Website: JMD $40,000 to $95,000 (~USD $250 to $600)

Timeline: 7 to 10 days

Outcome: A professional presence customers can trust, mobile-ready, with basic search visibility.

Good for: New businesses, simple service listings, contact-focused sites.

Landing Page: JMD $25,000 to $60,000 (~USD $160 to $380)

Timeline: 3 to 5 days

Good for: Campaigns, single offers, event promotions.

Brand Starter Kit: JMD $60,000 to $150,000 (~USD $380 to $950)

Outcome: Logo, colours, fonts, and a simple brand guide for consistent use across cards and social.

Good for: Businesses launching or refreshing before a site build.

Business Website + Systems: JMD $120,000 to $280,000 (~USD $760 to $1,770)

Timeline: 3 to 6 weeks

Outcome: A site that captures leads and gives the business a simple way to manage enquiries and bookings.

Good for: Salons, clinics, restaurants, professional services, and most growing SMEs.

This is Buzprout's most common recommendation when the site is part of how the business operates.

Tourism Website: JMD $140,000 to $320,000 (~USD $890 to $2,025)

Outcome: Turn browsers into booking requests for tours, stays, and experiences.

Payment options: how clients can pay the build

Not every client can pay the full build upfront. Buzprout offers structured options; the right one depends on tier, cash flow, and eligibility.

Milestone build (default)

Structure: 40% deposit at signing, then staged payments at design approval and launch.

Best for: Clients who can fund the project in three payments.

Ownership: Full ownership when the final milestone clears.

Example: JMD $200,000 project → JMD $80,000 signing, $60,000 design, $60,000 launch.

Buzprout Flex: build now, pay monthly

Structure: Deposit (typically 40%) + monthly installments over 6 to 18 months, depending on tier.

Plan fee: 10% (6 months), 15% (12 months), or 20% (18 months) on the financed portion only.

Best for: Growth and Systems builds where the client needs the site live before paying in full.

Ownership: Transfers when the plan is complete. Early payoff discount available (5%).

Example: JMD $200,000 Business Website + Systems → JMD $80,000 deposit + ~JMD $11,500/month × 12 months.

Eligibility: Valid ID, business or revenue proof, signed contract, deposit paid before work starts.

Build + Care: lower deposit, bundled support

Structure: 25% deposit + 18 monthly payments that bundle build cost, hosting, and light care.

Best for: Entry-tier sites only, when even a Flex deposit is a stretch.

Not available for: Systems-tier builds.

Example: JMD $80,000 Starter Website → JMD $20,000 deposit + JMD $5,000/month × 18 months.

Ongoing care: monthly fees after launch

The build fee ends at launch. Care continues while the site is in use.

Care is not "charging for free hosting." It is a predictable fee for ownership, updates, security, and reliability especially when bookings or deposits depend on the site.

Website Care tiers

Care Essential: JMD $4,000 to $6,000/month (~USD $25 to $38/month)

Hosting oversight, SSL, backups, uptime checks, security patches, email support (48-hour response).

Edits billed separately. Best for brochure sites that rarely change.

Care Standard: JMD $8,000 to $12,000/month (~USD $50 to $76/month)

Everything in Essential, plus 2 hours of content or design edits per month, WhatsApp support, monthly health report.

Recommended for most active business sites that need regular price or content updates.

Care Plus: JMD $15,000 to $22,000/month (~USD $95 to $140/month)

Everything in Standard, plus 5 edit hours, same-day priority response, quarterly analytics review.

For tourism, campaigns, and teams that need fast turnaround.

Systems retainers (custom software clients)

Business Systems Retainer: JMD $35,000 to $120,000/month

Ongoing fixes, features, monitoring, and predictable development time for custom platforms.

Growth Retainer: JMD $80,000 to $200,000/month

Roadmap features, automation, reports, and a long-term improvement partner.

Why these prices are fair: justification referrers can use

Build fees reflect business value, not page count

A booking site for a salon is not priced like a five-page brochure because it affects revenue operations: appointments, deposits, policies, two locations, and service menus that change. The build creates a system the business depends on.

Caribbean market context

Buzprout prices in JMD with USD equivalents. Ranges sit below what large agencies charge for comparable work, while reflecting real specialist time, design, development, testing, launch, and handoff.

Care is intentionally modest

At JMD $5,000 to $8,000/month, care is roughly 1 to 4 hours of specialist attention per month. It is not an open-ended support contract. One broken booking weekend can cost a salon more than several months of care in lost appointments.

DIY vs partner: when to refer to Buzprout

DIY builders (template sites clients update themselves) work when:

- 1 to 5 pages that rarely change
- No bookings, dashboards, or custom logic
- Budget under ~JMD $30,000/year all-in

Refer to Buzprout when:

- Bookings, payments, or admin tools are needed
 - WhatsApp and spreadsheets are breaking under volume
 - Delivery tracking, portals, or multi-user systems are required
 - The client wants monthly payments instead of one large invoice

Matching referrals to the right tier

Use this quick guide when a client comes through a referrer:

"I just need to be online" → Entry (Starter Website or Landing Page)

"I need bookings / enquiries / the site to help run the business" → Growth (Business Website + Systems)

"I need tracking, dashboards, or software for my team" → Systems (Custom Platform or Logistics Lite)

"The site is live but nobody maintains it" → Care Essential, Standard, or Plus

"We have custom software and keep needing changes" → Business Systems or Growth Retainer

Always ask: What happens if the site breaks before a busy weekend? Who updates prices when they change?

Worked example: The Beauty Refinery JA

This case shows how Buzprout's pricing logic applies to a real booking-dependent business. The build is already agreed, so the figures below explain the delivered value and the JMD $5,000 monthly platform fee that begins after handover.

Why this is a platform, not a brochure site

The Beauty Refinery JA received an operating system for customers, staff, and the owner:

Public website — 10 page groups

- Home, Services, About, Work, Training, Apply, Policies, FAQs, and Contact
- Separate application forms for 1-to-1 and 2-to-1 training
- Live service catalogue with JMD/USD prices and service durations

Online booking

- Guided multi-step booking
- Availability based on opening hours, holidays, days off, partial-day blocks, and service duration
- Twelve-hour lead time and double-booking prevention
- Automatic assignment when a customer chooses any available artist
- Server-side checks before a booking is accepted

Customer accounts — 7 screens

- Registration, login, email confirmation, profile, password change, forgot password, and reset password
- Prior appointments automatically linked by customer email

Owner and staff portal — 10 sections

- Insights, Applications, Team, Bookings, Services, Availability, Locations, Help & Guide, Password, and Billing
- Booking search, completion, rescheduling, cancellation, and payment-status management
- Service pricing and duration controls
- Staff privileges and bookable-artist configuration
- Weekly availability and exception management
- Online invoice viewing and secure payment from the owner billing screen

Backend, security, and communications

- Dedicated business data structure with nine staged database updates
- Eight secure server processes for bookings, rescheduling, staff management, customer linking, and platform billing
- Record-level access controls across all business data
- Branded account-confirmation and password-reset emails
- Owner Operations Manual and technical setup documentation

Agreed monthly platform fee

Platform fee: JMD $5,000/month (approximately USD $31)

The fee combines routine operating costs with ongoing technical ownership:

- Current routine website delivery, database, account, domain, and transactional-email costs
- Monitoring, managed backups, security and dependency updates
- Small bug fixes and owner/staff support
- Technical ownership of the public site, booking flow, customer accounts, admin portal, and email delivery
- Advance warning when usage requires a higher infrastructure tier

Cost-center view

Specific suppliers are intentionally not listed. The client is buying a managed outcome from Buzprout, not being asked to coordinate the underlying technology vendors.

- Website delivery, secure connection, and global distribution: currently JMD $0 base
- Database, customer accounts, file storage, and server processes: approximately JMD $1,300–$1,900/month
- Domain registration: approximately JMD $200/month when the annual cost is averaged
- Transactional account email: currently JMD $0 base within the present allowance
- Online payment platform: JMD $0 monthly base; transaction charges apply separately
- Monitoring, backups, security patches, software updates, small fixes, and support: approximately JMD $2,900–$3,700/month

Current hard infrastructure is therefore approximately JMD $1,500–$2,100/month. The balance of the JMD $5,000 fee pays for maintenance and accountability. Estimates can change with exchange rates, supplier pricing, and usage.

At current volume, the owner does not receive separate routine infrastructure invoices. If the platform outgrows an included allowance, Buzprout explains the need and price before an upgrade or fee change.

Billing details

- Handover: 20 July 2026
- First payment due: 20 August 2026
- First invoice: TBRJA-PLAT-2026-08
- Payment method: secure online checkout from the owner portal's Billing section
- Annual picture at the current rate: JMD $60,000

The first payment is due one month after handover. The project build and recurring platform fee are separate obligations.

Not included in the JMD $5,000

- New feature builds, including customer deposit checkout, automatic message reminders, walk-in booking creation, or a customer CRM
- Redesigns or new pages beyond the delivered set
- Large content, workflow, or dashboard changes
- Infrastructure upgrades required after exceeding current usage allowances
- Per-transaction payment-processing charges
- Advertising, SEO campaigns, photography, copywriting, or branding

Out-of-scope work is explained and quoted before it begins.

Growth rule

The current setup is sized for one studio at its present volume. Higher traffic, booking volume, stored data, or email usage may require paid infrastructure tiers. Those costs are not hidden: Buzprout will identify the category, explain why the upgrade is needed, and confirm how it affects billing before making the change.

Why the referrer can stand behind this

The Beauty Refinery JA received a full operating platform: public website, booking and availability, customer accounts, owner and staff tools, secure data processes, account emails, billing, and documentation. The JMD $5,000 monthly fee keeps that delivered platform operating and gives the business one accountable technical partner. At current usage it includes routine infrastructure, domain, monitoring, backups, security updates, small fixes, and support. Transaction charges, major new features, redesigns, and future capacity upgrades are separate.

What clients pay separately (not in build or care)

Be clear that these are additional and help explain why "cheap hosting" does not mean "cheap everything":

- Domain registration and renewal
- Hosting or database plan upgrades as traffic and data grow
- Paid messaging or SMS credits
- Photography, copywriting, or branding beyond scope
- Advertising and SEO campaigns

- New major features (card payments, staff dashboards, SMS automation)
 - Emergency after-hours work outside agreed care hours

What is not included in standard care

To keep monthly fees fair and predictable:

- Full redesign or rebrand
 - New major features scoped as separate projects
 - Unlimited content changes (Care Standard/Plus add formal edit hours for higher volume)
 - Third-party platform invoices, at cost or paid directly by the client

Short scripts for referrers

When introducing Buzprout

Buzprout builds technology that helps Caribbean businesses grow, websites, booking systems, and custom tools. They quote firm prices after a free call. Published ranges are starting points.

When a client pushes on price

The build is a one-time investment to create something the business runs on. Care is a small monthly fee to keep it working. It is not server rent. Nothing is truly free: you pay in money, your time, or lost bookings when the site breaks or prices go stale.

When explaining build vs care

Build fee = create and launch. Monthly care or platform fee = keep it live, secure, and accurate. The agreement will state whether provider costs are included or billed separately.

When referring a beauty / booking client like Beauty Refinery

For TBRJA, build is already sorted. The JMD $5,000 monthly platform fee includes current routine infrastructure, monitoring, backups, security updates, small fixes, and support for the website, booking system, customer accounts, and admin portal. The first payment is due 20 August 2026 through secure checkout in the owner billing screen.

Referrer compensation

Referrers are paid for sending real business. The structure is simple and paid only on money actually received from the client, so there is no risk to Buzprout or the referrer.

What a referrer earns

Build commission: 10% of the one-time build fee.

Paid on the build cost the client actually pays. For milestone or monthly (Flex / Build + Care) plans, commission is paid proportionally as each client payment clears.

Recurring commission: 10% of the monthly platform / care fee for the first 12 months.

Paid each month after the client's payment for that month clears. It applies to the first 12 monthly payments per referred client.

When and how it is paid

- Commission is paid after the client's payment clears, not at signing. If a payment is refunded or reversed, the related commission is not owed.
- Payouts are made on a regular cycle (typically monthly) once cleared amounts are confirmed.
- Recurring commission ends after the 12th monthly payment, or earlier if the client cancels.

Eligibility

- The referrer must be named before the client's discovery call so the introduction is on record.
- The client must be new to Buzprout (not an existing or already-in-progress client).

- One referrer per client. If two people claim the same client, the first recorded introduction stands.
- Self-referrals do not qualify (a business referring itself for its own project).
- Commission applies to the build fee and the monthly platform / care fee only — not to per-transaction processing charges, third-party infrastructure costs, or reimbursed expenses.

Worked payout example (Growth build)

A referred client signs a JMD $200,000 Business Website + Systems build and a JMD $8,000/month care plan:

- Build commission: 10% of JMD $200,000 = JMD $20,000 (paid as the client's build payments clear)
- Recurring commission: 10% of JMD $8,000 = JMD $800/month for 12 months = JMD $9,600
- First-year total to referrer: about JMD $29,600

Beauty Refinery JA payout (recurring only)

TBRJA's build is already agreed, so for this client the recurring commission applies:

- 10% of the JMD $5,000/month platform fee = JMD $500/month
 - Paid each month after the client's payment clears, for the first 12 months
 - First-year total to referrer: JMD $6,000

Referral process

1. Referrer shares this guide or the relevant section with the client or biller.
2. Referrer is named to Buzprout before the discovery call so the introduction is on record for commission.
3. Client books a free discovery call at buzprout.com or directly with the team.
4. Buzprout confirms outcome, scope, and firm quote.
5. Client chooses Milestone, Flex, or Build + Care (if eligible).
6. Care is agreed before or at launch. It is not treated as optional for booking-dependent businesses.
7. Referrer is paid as the client's payments clear (10% of build, then 10% of the monthly fee for 12 months).

Referrers are welcome to stay in the loop; client contracts and payments are directly with Buzprout unless otherwise agreed.

Bottom line for referrers

Buzprout prices reflect real business outcomes, not cheap templates.

- Build = create the asset (JMD $25,000 to $2M+ depending on tier)
- Care = keep it reliable (JMD $4,000 to $22,000/month for websites; higher for systems)
- Infrastructure = real provider costs that may be included in a platform fee or billed separately, as stated in the client agreement
- Referrer earns = 10% of the build fee, plus 10% of the monthly fee for the first 12 months, paid as client payments clear
- Nothing is free: the only question is whether the client pays in cash, time, or lost opportunity

For booking-dependent businesses like salons, skipping care to save JMD $5,000/month is a false economy. One bad weekend often costs more than a year of care.
